Pre-Solo

STAGE CHECKS: Now I think it is a good Idea to do a pre -solo stage check with another instructor. This flight will basically review all the maneuvers you have done. I have included an outline to give you an idea of what the stage check will consist of. Some schools may not require it and some will. If your school doesn't require it, you can always request to go up with another instructor.

Pre-Solo Written Test

PRESOLO WRITTEN TEST: Your pre solo written test will just cover the things that apply to the airport you are flying out of and the airplane you are going to solo in. I have made up a short list of thing you will want to study.

PRE- SOLO TEST:I have included a link to one of my pre solo tests. This should give you a pretty good idea of what to expect. Remember this will apply to the airport you are flying out of so the airspace questions will be different.

Your First Solo

YOUR FIRST SOLO: Your first solo you can expect soon. Your individual flight instructor will either let you know when you are going to solo or they will surprise you. I have done this both ways. Some people will get nervous about it, so I will just say lets move forward, then when we are practicing landing I will hop out of the plane.

One thing your first solo is not, is a spectator sport. I tell people not to tell their families and friends to come out with the video cameras and anything. This is your first time and you don't need any extra stress added on you.

Below is a video of one of my students doing their first solo. This was about 6 years ago. HINT” See if you can find the mistake she made and what she did to correct it”

The Mistake was made in the runup area and she fixed it on downwind. It is tough to see but it is there.
